

Reliable. Responsible. Exemplary.
Since 1898.

Our Passion:
Your Kitchen

We believe in kitchens that connect

People, moments and generations – in places of life, connection and belonging. Where function transforms into living – and the everyday becomes home.

For more than 125 years, we have been shaping the heart of the home.

With precision, with dedication and with passion. Because quality is non-negotiable. And reliability is not a promise, but a principle.

We think in generations – and have done so for over a century. We act with a view of the bigger picture: For people. For families. For the future.

Reliable,

because trust is our foundation.
We stand by our clear commitments and consistent performance.

Responsible,

because we do not merely promise
the future – we shape it. In doing so, we always put people first.

Exemplary,

because we are judged by what we do.
Our aim is to set new standards time and again.

The Häcker company – a family business on the global stage

Tradition with a future – how integrity grew into an international success story.

Häcker was founded as a joinery by Hermann Häcker in 1898 and was passed to his son Friedrich in 1938 – with technical precision, grounded values and the firm determination to create long-lasting furniture. It soon became clear: quality is not defined by materials alone, but by values. These values continue to shape the company to this day.

Jan and Jochen Finkemeier | Family Owners

In 1965, Friedrich Häcker’s son-in-law, Horst Finkemeier, took over the company and, together with his wife Renate, developed it into a modern kitchen brand – with foresight and entrepreneurial responsibility. Today, the company is run by the fifth generation of the family. Häcker has long established itself as a trusted partner in international specialist retail trade – through steady growth, innovative production methods and a corporate culture that puts people at the centre.

Today, Häcker is a global leader, employing 2,000 people across five state-of-the-art facilities at two locations in Germany. From Rödinghausen, kitchens are exported to more than 60 countries – with an export share of over 40%. Whether in Europe, Asia or America: specialist retail partners, project developers and private customers worldwide trust in the precision, service and delivery quality of “Made in Germany.” Despite its international presence, Häcker has remained a family business – with strong fundamental values that are lived every single day.

The Finkemeier family continues to personally embody reliability, collaboration and long-term responsibility – towards employees, partners, customers and future generations.

Häcker has grown. Not only in size, but above all in integrity. And yet remains exclusively: a kitchen manufacturer with countenance, history and a clear vision of what defines an exceptional kitchen.

For our partners worldwide

Export expertise
with a personal touch.

Globally connected – locally dependable.

From Europe to Asia to the Americas, our export teams support partners worldwide – with market knowledge, technical expertise and a genuine understanding of local needs. Together in more than 60 countries, we create kitchens that connect – and grow stronger with every partnership.

Our international strength rests on a single promise: exceptional quality – made in Germany, designed for the world.

Personal. Competent. Collaborative.

Our corporate values

Reliable

Through precision. Through foresight. Through trust.

Trust is our foundation. At Häcker, reliability starts with our approach. We test, certify and safeguard our quality through a systematic quality management system that covers every detail and ensures every result is traceable – regularly verified by independent testing institutes.

Anyone who works with Häcker knows exactly where they stand: clear commitments and consistent performance, today and tomorrow. More than 350 staff in sales and service look after our customers worldwide.

Through the Häcker Academy, we share knowledge, experience and a personal touch – on-site, digitally and always with a focus on what matters most: trust that grows.

“For us, quality is not a goal, but a process that we live every day. Only when every detail is perfect do we release it for production.”

Stefan Möller | Managing Director

Responsible

For people. For families. For the future.

“Creating opportunities for the next generation is a long-standing tradition for us. I’m delighted that our apprentices are also putting this philosophy into practice: in the training workshop, they’re building ‘mud kitchens’ for nurseries.”

Jan Finkemeier | Managing Partner

We don’t just promise a future – we shape it. At Häcker, responsibility is a principle that puts people at the heart of every decision. That requires more than just attractive design.

As a family-run business, we don’t make decisions with the next quarter in mind, but with the next generation in mind.

Those who start an apprenticeship at Häcker often stay for their entire working lives. For around 2,000 employees across two German sites and five factories, we create an environment that offers security and prospects.

And for us, responsibility doesn’t end at the factory gate: in over 60 countries, it extends to every home where Häcker is part of everyday life.

Exemplary

With high standards. With openness. With passion.

A role model is someone who is judged by what they do – not by what they say. That is why we practise transparency and fair dealings with our customers, suppliers and staff.

Häcker stands for a culture that encourages initiative, gives ideas room to flourish and allows the better argument to prevail. One question drives us every day: Can we do even better? Our aim is to continually set new standards, both on a large and small scale.

Last but not least, everything we do is driven by a deep passion – for our products, for our service and for the people behind them.

“By showing integrity and leading by example, we don’t just live our corporate values – we help to shape them actively.”

Karin Padinger | Head of Marketing and Interior Design

Digitisation at Häcker

Innovation begins with digital precision.

At Häcker, digitisation is part of our assurance of quality. From planning through production to customer service, we rely on connected processes, intelligent software solutions and modern IT infrastructure.

Our production is digitally controlled and data-driven – meaning greater efficiency, greater transparency and greater precision. Digital interfaces with partners and customers ensure smooth workflows and reliable communication.

We support our partners worldwide with digital tools for configuration, planning and training – for greater speed, security and service quality. Because real innovation begins where technology empowers people.

Product World & Design

Kitchens that connect – through quality, design and emotion.

Our kitchens are more than furniture – they are an expression of personality, of lifestyle and of appreciation for what truly matters in everyday life: shared moments, good food and a place where you feel completely at home.

Every Häcker kitchen is the result of a finely tuned balance of design, function and precision. Clean lines, premium materials and customised colour schemes ensure that our kitchens are not only aesthetically compelling, but also provide the highest level of comfort in use.

The focus is as much on high-quality craftsmanship and maximum creative freedom as it is on emotional aspects: the joy of creation, the feeling of home, and the harmony between architecture and lifestyle.

Our kitchens don't adapt to a space – they redefine it. They create living environments that inspire, soothe and energise. Places where people cook, live, laugh and reflect.

A Häcker kitchen is not only built to function. It is crafted to inspire.

People at Häcker

Commitment with integrity

“I began my career in inside sales and was given the opportunity to take part in developing new software. Häcker recognised my strengths and offered opportunities for growth – leading to new responsibilities and personal fulfilment.”

René Schulz | Customer Service Representative

What defines Häcker is not only products, processes or projects – it is the people. Around 2,000 employees contribute their skills, ideas and values every single day. In production, in sales, in logistics, in administration. In teams that count on one another. In an environment shaped by trust, responsibility and genuine collaboration.

Our employees are enablers, thinkers, co-creators. They work with precision – because quality is non-negotiable. They act with foresight – because today's decisions shape tomorrow. And they demonstrate integrity – towards customers, colleagues and in everyday collaboration.

Appreciation with vision

We invest purposefully in growth and the future: with tailored support, a wide range of training programmes, and a modern learning department dedicated to education and ongoing development. Our strong commitment to apprenticeships shows that we believe in the potential of young people – and open up opportunities that last well into the future.

Reliable,

because we focus on long-term relationships – not only with partners, but also within our team.

Responsible,

because we create an environment that provides security and enables growth.

Exemplary,

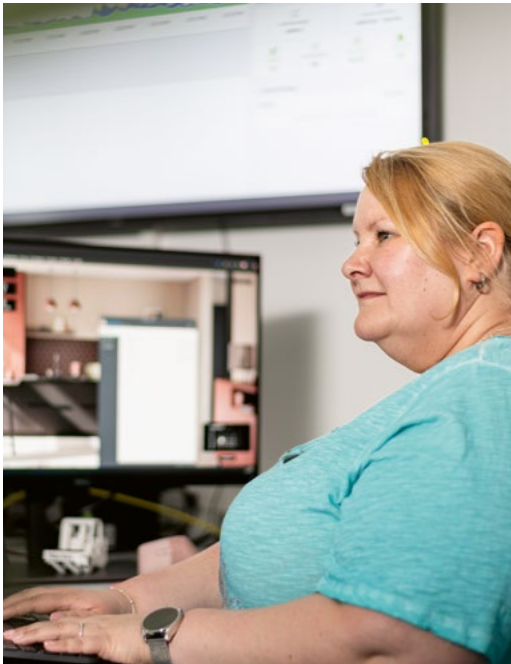

because we set new standards through openness, dedicated support and genuine collaboration.

At Häcker, you become part of a community that creates more than kitchens. A community that stands for values – in every detail and in every project, big or small. Every day.

“For 35 years, I have ensured that every kitchen is not just completed, but crafted to perfection in every detail.”

Andreas Berger | Production Assistant Custom Manufacturing Department

“My responsibility is to ensure that every system runs seamlessly – so that everyone can focus fully on their work.”

Verena Schröder | IT Support & Collaboration Staff Member

Knowledge that drives progress

The Häcker Academy

At Häcker, learning isn't an extra – it's a core part of our culture. With the Häcker Academy, we've created a modern platform that shares knowledge, opens perspectives and fosters growth – both internally and externally.

From new employees to experienced retail partners and international sales teams, the training we offer is practical, state-of-the-art and multifaceted. In person or online, modular or individually tailored.

We not only impart product expertise: we pass on principled values. What does it mean to be exclusively quality-oriented? How do we communicate responsibility? And how do we shape the future – together with our partners?

At the heart of it all is people. Because we believe: those who understand what drives us act with greater awareness, think ahead and pass on their knowledge. That's what strengthens us as a brand – and makes our partners more successful.

Exhibitions & Projects

Where values take shape and design makes an impact

In our 4,000 m² in-house exhibition in Rödینگhausen, visitors discover more than kitchens – they experience our integrity, innovation and core values. Here, design, technology and principles come together as a harmonious whole.

Every autumn, Häcker hosts its in-house trade fair – presenting fresh ideas, new impulses and encouraging open dialogue with retail partners from around the world. What we showcase is not only products, but mindsets. Not only innovations, but the future.

Where tradition meets innovation in perfect harmony

The balance between heritage and future.

At Häcker, harmony is not a stylistic device – it is a creed. It emerges when design, function and responsibility are in perfect alignment – when precision meets emotion and aesthetics enrich convention. The fusion of time-honoured craftsmanship and future-oriented technology defines our holistic kitchen culture – inspired by people, guided by quality and sustained by responsibility.

Our commitment to quality is evident in every detail: in meticulous workmanship as much as in thoughtful design.
